

Solar Energy Basics

Solar panels convert sunlight into electricity using photovoltaic cells. The energy generated can be used immediately by your home appliances, or fed back into the grid for credits (net metering). During peak sunlight hours, usually between 10 AM and 2 PM, solar generation is at its highest. A solar surplus occurs when your panels generate more power than your home is currently consuming. Utilizing high-power appliances like washing machines during solar surplus hours maximizes your savings.